I hereby certify to the public that a child of mine [illegible] years old being troubled with worms, I was induced to purchase a bottle of Dr. C. NEW YORK, April 6—9 A. M.—General Grant has had [illegible] and refreshing sleep of seven [illegible]. His pulse is [illegible] temperature [illegible]. He has had no pain during the night [illegible] little. He is inclined to be cheerful. [illegible] SHRADY, M. D.

NEW YORK, April 6.—[illegible] Senator Chaffee left the house of General Grant between 10 and 11 [illegible] that the general's voice was clear [illegible] husky at times [illegible] and that he may live two or three days yet.

1:40 P. M.—General Grant had a quiet morning [illegible] napping and chatting by turns. Pulse [illegible] and good volume. He has had no pain for several hours. SHRADY.

A QUIET AFTERNOON.

[illegible] P. M.—The afternoon has been a very quiet one for General Grant. He has been free from pain and dozed most of the time in a chair. He has taken nourishment regularly and well. Pulse with slight [illegible].
J. H. DOUGLAS, M. D.

AN UNFAVORABLE CHANGE.

NEW YORK, April [illegible] A. M.—An unfavorable change has taken place in the condition of General Grant. Drs. Shrady and Douglas have [illegible] been sent for. [illegible] Senator Chaffee and Dr. Newman [illegible] sent for at the same time. The indications [illegible]

[illegible]

A carriage was sent after Dr. Sands [illegible]. This is the first time Dr. Sands has been sent for, and the supposition is that [illegible] and that Dr. Sands has been called to perform tracheotomy.

[illegible] ARRIVES.

[illegible] A. M.—Dr. Sands has just arrived at General Grant's house with a case of instruments. [illegible] Ulysses S. Grant, Jr., and General Badeau [illegible] have also arrived.

A SLIGHT HEMORRHAGE.

[illegible] A. M.—General Grant slept well till [illegible] A. M., when he awoke and took nourishment. Immediately after, in a paroxysm of coughing, he had a slight hemorrhage, which ceased spontaneously in a few moments. Dr. Sands and Shrady were sent for, and [illegible] the general is quiet as usual, having had no return of the hemorrhage.
J. H. DOUGLAS, M. D.
GEORGE F. SHRADY, M. D.

[illegible]

NEW YORK, April 6.—As [illegible] in his sermon yesterday he made a touching allusion to [illegible] but without naming Grant. He deprecated the sentiment which would [illegible] his work was done and done well and his [illegible]. "Pass on, old hero, pass on." His voice faltered and there was moisture in the eyes of many present.

PATTI DENIES A STATEMENT.

[illegible] declaring [illegible] any of Wagner's operas and [illegible] Christine Nilsson [illegible] their voices by attempting such [illegible] [illegible] comment on Wagner's productions or spoke in that manner of Miss Kellogg.

Opera hall, which was thrown open to the public this evening, is one of great beauty although [illegible] affair. It has been constructed in the exposition building, where the national conventions which put in nomination Garfield, Blaine and Cleveland were held. Opera hall occupies the northern end of the great structure and partakes of the usual architecture of a theater [illegible] seating capacity much beyond an ordinary [illegible]. [illegible] features of the hall are the great expanse of stage, allowing fully 400 persons to appear at the same moment, and the great number of boxes to the right and left of the stage [illegible]. The [illegible] of the interior is very rich and the scenery, costumes and stage property are claimed to be the finest [illegible] employed in presenting grand opera in this country. Ticket sales [illegible] afternoon have reached [illegible] making complete financial success.

A BRILLIANT [illegible]

CHICAGO, April 6.—Before 8 o'clock every seat in the [illegible] auditorium was occupied, and [illegible] later at the close of the overture several hundred persons monopolized the standing room back of the parquette and in the aisles. The [illegible] Semiramide. The first strains of the overture satisfied the audience that the acoustic arrangement of the hall was admirable. The [illegible] tones of Arditi's large [illegible] orchestra were perfectly audible in all parts of the house. Patti [illegible] could not have wished a warmer reception than was accorded her, nor could [illegible] on that account. The chorus of 400 [illegible] half of which was composed of a local contingent under direction of Silas G. Pratt, did its work in a way to win the good will of the audience from the start. Socially the opening [illegible] festival was a great success, each [illegible] boxes containing representatives of [illegible] here. The directors [illegible] enterprise [illegible]

The Twelfth Annual Convention Meets at Cheyenne—The Secretary's Report.

It [illegible] the work of the association during the twelve years [illegible] remarkable growth, [illegible] beginning in April, 1873, with ten members representing [illegible] and valued at $50,000 [illegible] total representing ownership of 2,000,000 head of cattle and [illegible] horses, plant and real estate [illegible] $100,000,000. The association had prepared a brand law which protects the record of previous ownership, and secured the enactment of the first sanitary law for protection against disease which was passed west of the Alleghanies, excepting only those of the state of Illinois.

The report then touches upon the more recent labors of the association and speaks of investigations as to the existence of Texas fever. In regard to this question Secretary Sturgis and a special committee, which thoroughly investigated the subject, decided:

First—That Texas cattle brought from the southern part of Texas [illegible] to our [illegible] days from the time said southern [illegible]. Any method of bringing them which places them on our ranges in less than that time should be discouraged, and cattle so brought should be refused admission.

Second—That the same cattle can be brought [illegible] after sixty days have elapsed with entire safety [illegible].

The report, speaking of pleuro-pneumonia, says that investigations outside of the statements of government officials leave no doubt that it has this year appeared in four prominent western States, all farther west than any previous development, viz: in Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri. GENERAL NEWS.

The President Suspends a New York Postmaster.

HIS REASONS FULLY EXPLAINED

The Danger of Signing Papers Without Learning Their Contents Again Illustrated—Marines Ordered to Aspinwall, Etc.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The postmaster at [illegible], New York, was to-day suspended from further [illegible] of his office by order of the president, and James B. [illegible] has been designated to perform the duties in his stead. The president proposed the removal of the postmaster and [illegible] nomination of Corcoran to the senate at the recent session, which failed to take action on the nomination. The postmaster general applied to the president for instructions in the case and received a written communication as follows:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, April 6.
Hon. W. F. Vilas, Postmaster General—Dear Sir: In answer to your inquiry as to the disposition to be made of the case of the postmaster at Rome, Oneida county, New York, which was presented to the senate the [illegible] of March with a proposition that he be removed for cause, and which proposition was not acted upon prior to adjournment of that body on the 2d of April, I have to say that to me it clearly seems to be my duty to exercise by prompt action in this case all the power which the present conditions of the law have left in my hands. [illegible] done independently of a duty to protect the interests of the government [illegible] vindicate the laws which have been enacted for the regulation of the postal service and [illegible] upon federal office holders the fact that [illegible] will be granted by the executive to those who violate the law or neglect public duty.

WHY HE IS SUSPENDED.

This postmaster, under section 411 of the United States revised statutes and regulations of the post office department, was required to transmit to the department a weekly report of business done by him in the money order branch of his office. It appears from the official report of an inspector of the postoffice department now before me, and which was submitted to a committee of the senate while the proposition to remove this official was before it, that an examination of his office was ordered on the 27th of January, 1885, in consequence of the fact that no such weekly reports had been made since the 6th of December, 1884. It further appears from this report that such examination developed the most disgraceful confusion in all that pertained to the accounts and financial condition of the office; that there had been no entry in the money order cash book since July, 1884, and that, as might have been expected, there was a deficiency in the money order account of more than $[illegible], and in the postal account of more than $[illegible].

THE EXCUSE GIVEN.

There is, I think, no dispute touching these facts. The deficiency has been refunded to the government under an arrangement with one of the sureties of the delinquent official, and he attempts to excuse the wretched condition of his office by alleging that his assistant had entire charge of the money order business, as well as other details of the office. In making such an excuse this officer admits, it seems to me, a violation of [illegible] in turning over the operations of his office to an assistant without any pretext of sickness or unavoidable absence of the postmaster, which is contrary to a reasonable construction of section 4031 of the revised statutes, which provides that in case of sickness or unavoidable absence of the postmaster of any money order post office, he may, with the approval of the postmaster general, authorize the chief clerk or some other clerk employed therein to act in his place and to discharge all duties required by law of such postmaster.

[illegible] HIS OATH.

If it [illegible] that the assistant having had full charge is responsible for the delinquencies and irregularities complained of, the postmaster also appears to contradict his own sworn statement made to the department as late as September 30, 1884, to the effect that he himself had performed, for the preceding quarter, the money order business of his office, except when necessarily absent. I should do all that is in my power to [illegible] the public service of officials who [illegible] sections of their duty to the government. The fact that I have before me documents signed by many of the residents of the city where this postmaster is located, and who, being [illegible], [illegible] asserting their entire confidence in his honesty and fidelity, demonstrates the unfortunate facility with which papers may be obtained, and gives rise to an unpleasant suspicion touching the too prevalent standard of public honesty. If I cannot remove this delinquent postmaster I can surely suspend him. This I have determined to do promptly, and I desire you to present to me papers necessary for that purpose, with the designation of James B. Corcoran to perform the duties in place of the official thus suspended. Yours truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL INTERVIEWED.

At an interview with the postmaster general he stated to a reporter of the Associated Press this afternoon that the senate committee asked for and had sent to them the papers in the case, including the inspector's report, and the reason for their declining to approve the proposed removal was unknown to him, and could only be surmised. The facts are plainly shown, he said, by the official report of inspector made during the term of President Arthur, and open to no suspicion of partisan or personal unfriendliness, and are such indeed as hardly to admit of explanation. The president in his letter has only mentioned those in respect to which no opportunity for question was open. The removal was not proposed for any other purpose than to improve the service, and the nominee is a man against whom no just objection could lie. The postmaster general added: The present may be a good opportunity to say that from some evidence before him he believes the notion to be prevalent, and the practice to be general accordingly, that postmasters should have an allowance for clerks sufficient to enable the business of their offices to be transacted chiefly by them, while the postmaster himself, though the best paid, should be required no personal labor beyond personal supervision. This case illustrates what may happen from such a practice. If the excuse of the Rome postmaster be accepted, then in every case of default the clerk or assistant will be made the scapegoat. It is the intention of the department to make careful scrutiny of these allowances and reduce them when necessary, materially requiring the postmaster to give his personal time and attention to the duties of his office and assist in their performance, except in those few larger offices where his time may be necessarily required in general supervision. It is believed that by such course the public will be much better served, and that a considerable reduction in the annual expenditure of the department may be realized.

Edwin C. Kirkwood was indicted with Carrigan in the seven cases in question, but the district attorney said to the court to-day that as Kirkwood had already been sentenced to six years [illegible] the government [illegible] did not care to take up the time of the court with any further proceedings in these cases. Carrigan was remanded for sentence.

A BIG ERROR.

The Danger of Signing Papers Without Learning Their Contents Again Illustrated.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—On March 17th last Acting Commissioner Harrison, of the general land office, directed the register and receiver of the land office at Los Angeles, California, to publish notice to the effect that the lands included within the land grant to the Texas Pacific company had been restored to the public domain and were open to settlement. On the next day the following letter was addressed to the Los Angeles land office:

WASHINGTON, March 18.
Register and Receiver, Los Angeles, California: Referring to my letter of the 17th, wherein you were informed that by the act of February 28, 1885, the grant of lands to the Texas Pacific railroad by the act of March 3, 1871, was declared forfeited, and the land restored to the public domain, with instruction to publish notices of such restoration, you are advised that the lands in the limits of the grant to aid in the construction of branch lines of the Southern Pacific railroad will not be affected by this restoration, the latter having been constructed within the time specified by law. Very respectfully,
LUTHER HARRISON,
Acting Commissioner.

SPARKS CORRECTS THE ERROR.

On Saturday last Commissioner Sparks wrote the following letter concerning the matter to the same land office:

My attention having been called to the instructions of March 18, I have considered the subject and find no reason why such a letter should have been written. The same is therefore revoked, and you will be governed by the instructions of March 17, directing you to give notice of restoration of all lands heretofore withdrawn from the Texas Pacific railroad, the same being the odd numbered sections within twenty miles on each side of the projected line of the road from the eastern boundary of the state of California to the Pacific ocean.

In explanation of his last action the commissioner said: "That letter of March 18 was highly objectionable and should not have been written. It seemingly put within reach of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company a half million acres of land to which it had no right or color of title. I say seemingly, for the letter in reality only reserved the land from present disposition. I am satisfied that Harrison, who was then acting commissioner, intended no wrong in the matter. He signed the letter without having had the facts properly presented to him. Of course it is not possible for the commissioner to examine closely every paper he signs. I do not know who was at the bottom of the matter." He added that he intended to make a further investigation.

SIGNED WITHOUT READING.

Harrison, the assistant commissioner, said the letter had been signed by him upon a representation by Chief Clerk D. Smith that it was intended to correct an error in the original order. Mr. Smith had assumed the responsibility and stated to him that he believed the suspension was required by the secretary's order. It was probably an error of judgment.

Mr. Smith, the chief clerk, declined to make any statement at this time, saying the facts can be learned from the error.

GRAND REVIEW AT RAWAL-PINDI.

RAWAL PINDI, April 6.—A grand review of all British and native troops here took place in the presence of Abdurrahman, the ameer of Afghanistan, Earl Dufferin, viceroy of India, and all the native chiefs with their brilliantly uniformed staffs. The march past the point of review occupied two hours. The troops presented a splendid appearance, and the parade was one of the finest spectacles ever beheld in India. The ameer was profoundly impressed by the ceremony with the power and glory of England. Earl Dufferin gives a grand banquet in honor of Abdurrahman to-night.

The immediate completion of the railway to Quetta has been ordered. The Maharajah of Nepaul has offered the services of 15,000 picked Goorkas, who he says are ready to march under British officers across the frontier in the service of the queen on receipt of a telegram from the viceroy asking them to do so. The Maharajah has tendered every assistance in his power for the purpose of recruiting native troops for service against Russia.

A banquet was given the ameer of Afghanistan by Earl Dufferin this evening. The ameer made an enthusiastic speech wishing success to England, and ending with the sentiment: "May her majesty's armies ever be victorious." Lord Dufferin led [illegible] cheers for the ameer, which were given with a will.

It is believed the Guards will soon embark for a new post. General Freeman Hale will command the advance.

The completed zereba on the Handoub road is called station number one, and the railway will be pushed rapidly to that point. The cavalry made a reconnoitering expedition in the vicinity of Handoub to-day. Bodies of the enemy were seen moving towards Handoub. The scouts and guards will occupy to-morrow a zereba on the Handoub road, which the Coldstream guards and the Australians built to-day. The Coldstream guards and the Australians will then go to Handoub. A week's supply of stores and provisions is being moved toward Handoub, and the whole army will be moved there Wednesday. Working parties of troops will to-morrow cut a way for the railroad through the bush, which is thicker toward Handoub than at any place heretofore reached. The convoy which went out to McNeill's zereba has returned with the garrison and stores. The hostile Arabs last night kept up a fire on the zereba for three hours and [illegible].

The Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1885.

LOST CAUSE JOURNALISM

Democratic journalism in Oregon has never been anything but a method of signifying a sentimental devotion to the southern confederacy In fact for more than a generation it has not been much else, anywhere. But in Oregon this has been especially its character, probably because the bulk of the democratic party of this state is of southern origin. Of the early settlers great numbers were from Missouri and the southwest, and these numbers were largely augmented by the additional exodus from that quarter caused by the suppression of the great rebellion. Probably it is the necessity of pleasing this class of citizens that has caused the democratic press of Oregon, ever since democratic journalism had its beginnings here, to devote itself so exclusively to the advocacy of southern politics. Before the war the democratic journalism of Oregon was as intensely pro-slavery as that of any of the cotton states, and in 1860 Breckenridge, running for the presidency on a platform demanding the nationalization of slavery, received the larger part of the democratic vote of the state. During the war the democratic papers of Oregon were so entirely devoted to the southern confederacy and so bitter in their denunciation of the national cause that most of them were suppressed by the government, through denial to them of the use of the mails. After the war the democratic press of Oregon bitterly opposed all the measures proposed for settlement of the great questions that grew out of the struggle. It insisted on denial of all rights, civil and political, to the colored population of the country. It demanded that the government be put at once into the hands of those who had been disarmed in their efforts to overthrow it, in its hatred of the national debt it clamored for repudiation, and down to this day it has never ceased to speak of the leaders of the rebellion as patriots, and to denounce as bad men, if not as enemies of their country, those who put the rebellion down It is perhaps not above a month ago that the Portland Standard, nettled by the passage of the bill to retire General Grant, said it was no more than right that Jefferson Davis now be put on the pay roll of the army, with back pay from the time he left the service, and that the confederate debt be paid and all ex-confederates pensioned, and now the democratic paper of Pendleton, the East Oregonian, is glad that Secretary Lamar closed the interior department in honor of Jacob Thompson, if for no other reason just to hear expressions of disapproval from those who do not like the political career of such men as Thompson

It is not surprising, therefore, that the democratic press of the state, entertaining these views, believes it to have been established by the election last November that it was more honorable to have supported slavery than to have opposed it, more patriotic to have fought against the Union than to have fought for it more reasonable and just since the war to have stood with the ex-confederates in opposition to the settlements demanded by the country than to have supported such settlements as the country required in the interest of public liberty and national justice Oregon's democratic journalism interprets and expounds democratic doctrine as it understands it, and no doubt it has always done so. But it does not make the democratic party very attractive to keep it thus identified with the lost cause It must be admitted, however, that Oregon democratic journalism receives a good deal of support in its view of the political situation from the fact that its party, after the foul record it has made, has been permitted to come into power in the government at all The very fact that a party so identified with the southern confederacy could win an election naturally produces great elation, and it goes far to confirm true-blue confederate democratic journalism, such as we have always had in Oregon, in the belief that it has been right all the time. And at the same time it must be remarked that all this goes far to produce in the minds of those who don't like the sort of politics exppounded by Oregon democratic journalism a feeling that they are living and will live so long as this administration lasts under the rule of the southern confederacy

THE TREASURY SURPLUS

Those politicians who made the campaign last year on the cry that the "surplus" in the treasury must be cleaned out, so that the money would circulate among the people, will be interested in learning through administration sources that the surplus cannot be safely diminished, but must, in fact, be increased Thus the head of the New York Herald's Washington bureau writes "The great question before Secretary Manning may be said to be how most securely to avert a silver panic and avoid the necessity of paying the government's obligations in an eighty-five cent silver dollar To escape such a disaster he must maintain a large gold reserve in the treasury, larger, it is safe to say, than the treasury has had for some time past, and as large as the laws which declare the duty of the treasury towards creditors of all kinds require." Isn't this a fine outcome for the demagogy of old Tom Hendricks, and the ten thousand like him, who bawled it from every stump last year that there must be a change of administration in order to unlock the treasury vaults and let the hoarded money go out among the people? Yet now Secretary Manning decides that gold enough has not been hoarded, and he means to accumulate and hold still more, so that there may be no danger of having to pay the obligations of the government in eighty five cent silver dollars All this is one more contribution to the old lesson that the democratic party is the party of false pretences This party is a combination of hypocrisy and ignorance, the one appealing to the other, and the two sworn to a common purpose When Tom Hendricks was talking about the surplus in the treasury last year, republicans answered that it could not be safely diminished, and would not be yet he, knowing well that he was lying because he is not altogether a fool, continued his appeals to blind ignorance and made millions of voters believe that the republicans had made "hard times" by locking up money in the treasury, and that a democratic administration would set everything a booming by putting the money in circulation Some men were made to think that as it was the [illegible] they would get direct dividends out of the treasury and as for the eighty five cent silver dollar, it was good enough for the bondholder, and a democratic administration would make him take it or give him nothing Perhaps it will now dawn on the solden democratic mind that it has been deceived But that will make no difference It will be ready and willing to be deceived again.

One of the most prominent of the mugwump papers, the Boston Advertiser has fairly laid down and is kicking and squealing because Secretary Lamar insulted the country by hoisting the flag half-mast in respect to the memory of that craven traitor, Jacob Thompson It says

A correspondent asks whether it is true that Secretary Lamar caused the flag over the interior department to be placed at half mast [illegible] of the death of Jacob Thompson [illegible] that Secretary Lamar did this thing, and there [illegible] no reasonable excuse for such an affront to the patriotism of the ever loyal people of the United States and the feelings of honest and [illegible] men If as has been reported it was long after a cabinet consultation and with the consent and approval of the president and the rest who sit around his council board so much the worse The proceeding is shameful and outrageous

"O, yes," remarks the Chicago Tribune, "but wasn't it for just such as this that you helped elect Cleveland? Didn't it occur to you that things would not be done under a democratic administration as they had been done under a republican administration? Were you not with all the other gentle mugwumps, howling and shrieking for a change? And have you not got it?"

Our new minister to the Netherlands is accredited to Rhode Island Thus the great states of Deleware, Maryland, Vermont and Rhode Island stand together under the protecting ægis of the new administration. Oregon is also a great state, and waits its turn.

SALEM April 6—State of Oregon respondent vs Martin Mackey and William Mackey appellants appeal from Josephine county the appellants being convicted of murder in the first degree Judgment of the lower court reversed and a new trial ordered Opinion by Lord J

A HISTORY OF THE CASE

Martin and William Mackey father and son were under sentence of death in Josephine county for jointly killing Michael Pursell on the 25th of June 1884 The facts brought out at the trial were about as follows Michael Pursell the deceased and Martin Mackey the elder defendant, were both miners and resided on Althouse creek Josephine county in their cabins on their respective mining claims the deceased on the left fork and Mackey below the forks on the main Althouse between three and four miles, estimated by the way of the trail usually traveled and about 2½ miles in a direct line across a high brushy rocky and timbered ridge At the June election of 1884 at Kerbyville, near by where the parties resided Pursell knocked Mackey down and inflicted upon him several severe injuries in consequence of which Mackey was confined to his room for several weeks and was unable to return to his cabin and mine until a few days prior to the homicide About an hour before sundown on the night of the 25th of June 1884 two shots were heard in the vicinity of Pursell s cabin by two miners who were between a quarter and a half a mile away The shots were fired one after the other one appearing to be a little heavier than the other About 10 o clock the next day the body of Pursell was found dead in the floor of his cabin Nine buckshot were found in the body William Mackey, son of the old defendant was a law student in Portland formerly and went from there to Kerbyville to attend to his father while recovering from the effects of the wounds inflicted by Pursell Tracks of O K boots were found in the vicinity of Pursell's cabin after the murder and a pair of this style of boots were found in Mackey's cabin The weapons found in the same cabin and threats made by the elder Mackey formed a train of circumstances strong enough to secure a conviction of both, though the evidence was all purely circumstantial

CAIN'S ACCIDENT POLICY

EAST PORTLAND April 6

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In the locals of Sunday s OREGONIAN I notice an item headed "He Pay All on One Side" which is justice to the association I represent cannot allow to pass unnoticed The man has misstated the case to your reporter in saying that the assessment notice was delayed in the snow blockade The assessment referred to was levied on the total membership November 11 and the time allowed for payment of same being sixty days expired on the 1st of December and as the blockade in until and did not occur till the 5th December a delay of the notice on that account was impossible as three to six days is all the time necessary in good weather for mails to reach here from Denver It is a rule of our association to mail a postal card to the early members ten days before the time of payment of any assessment expires notifying them of what day the allotted time expires and determines. This was the notice spoken of as being blockaded—simply a reminder to pay the assessment, of which legal notice had been sent On the 8th of January eighteen days after the time for payment of the assessment had expired Cain reported his injury and presented the delayed card, saying it was the only notice he had received and asked my advice how to proceed in the matter I told him to remit two dollars, the amount of his assessment and notify them of his injury and if the association managers would do nothing more they would at least return the money which they have done No company was ever known to pay a loss on a lapsed policy and the Great Western is no exception to the rule

If Cain as he states to your reporter regularly received notice to pay his dues after the injury it is singular that the special one upon which hangs the tale should have failed to reach him To conclude Cain has nothing of which to complain. He was insured from October 20th to December 21st, for $2000 and $10 weekly indemnity costing him but $3 which any insurance man will agree is a very low rate for a hazardous risk and had he been hurt inside of that time would have received his indemnity whether he ever paid another cent or not

LATEST NEWS FROM WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG April 6—General Middleton began his advance from Fort Qu'appelle this morning the advance guard leaving at 6 o clock He has now with him the Winnipeg rifles and a field battery about 350 men A and B batteries who left here last night reached Quappelle at 10 o clock A battery will probably be pushed to overtake the first detachment at Touchwood and the first contingent of Toronto troops about 900 will follow in the same line making this column about 750 strong It is said that B battery and a strong detachment from Toronto will go on to Swift Current and be taken down the South Saskatchewan in steamer and barges to meet the [illegible] column at Clark s Crossing They will make up about 400 men The "Queen's Own" rifles from Toronto arrived at Port Arthur this morning and will reach here at midnight The Grenadiers from Toronto are about twelve hours behind them

Nothing definite is known of Riel's force the most contradictory stories being afloat It is not likely that the rebels will oppose the troops in a body but they may do them much harm by harrassing the skirmishers on the march across the prairie There is every indication that the advance from Fort Quappelle to Battleford will be one of extreme difficulty The trail is in a bad state and teams cannot take heavy loads Mud on the road is knee deep in places Men of the batteries of the Queen's Own had a hard trip across the uncompleted portions of the Canadian Pacific railway The roads were bad and the weather is extremely cold the thermometer going as low as thirty three below The feeling is almost universal that this hardship and long delay should have been avoided by gaining permission to send troops through the United States

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

THE LATE ROBERT NEWCOMB.—It is not yet known whether the remains of Robert Newcomb, who died on the ocean between Los Angeles and San Francisco, will be brought to this city for interment. Telegrams were received by Dr J. A. Child and others from Mrs Newcomb, asking advice in the matter, and she was asked to consult only her own feelings in the matter Mr Newcomb's mother and step father reside in San Francisco, and he may be buried there He was born in New Orleans in 1844, and leaves one child, a boy, and now an attendant at the Bishop Scott Grammar school. He had served four years as grand recorder of the A O U W, and was elected by the last grand lodge as supreme representative He was a member of Ivanhoe Lodge No 10 Knights of Pythias. Last year he served as grand chancellor for the jurisdiction of Oregon, his term expiring October, 1884 Among the Masons he occupied high rank, having reached the 32d degree in the Scottish rite He was secretary of the Franklin Loan and Building Association of this city since its organization All his duties he discharged with honesty and intelligence, and throughout Oregon and Washington he leaves hosts of friends who will remember him with warmest feelings. LATER.—The remains will be brought to Portland by the next steamer, sailing Thursday.

THREE MEN DROWNED.—Sunday morning a party of three young men and a boy started for a hunt in a flat-bottomed skiff, from a point a few miles below Fisher's landing on the Columbia river The place is about four miles above Vancouver The party consisted of Anson Forbes, aged 14 years, son of P Forbes living near Vancouver, George King, N Rado and J Macdonald When well toward the middle of the river, three of the occupants stood up and began rocking the boat for fun in a reckless sort of a way, when one of the men lost his footing and fell heavily on the gunwale, capsizing the craft. Three of the party, Forbes, King and Rado floundered for a short time and sank. Macdonald clung to the skiff, shouted for help, and was rescued by a boat which put out from the shore At last accounts none of the bodies had been recovered Should any of them be found the fact ought to be communicated to P Forbes, Vancouver The drowned men were stonecutters, and owned a bachelor's retreat, to which they went when they were out of work.

LAID OUT BY A STREET CAR.—"Jerry" Coldwell of THE OREGONIAN, who is not so agile as he was when he attended Professor Parrish's dancing school, a dozen years ago, came to grief and to gravel in attempting to board a Third street car near his residence at noon yesterday. The car was coming down pretty fast and the driver didn't see the would-be passenger, hence did not check speed. Jerry had a package in one hand, but thought he could make it anyhow, so reached out for the railing of the front platform For the next few days he will wear court plaster to replace the cuticle removed from one side of his face, and perhaps the bruises all over his body will stop hurting in time for him to go fishing next Fourth of July He was laid up for repairs yesterday, but may run under slow bells to-day Unlike most others, he is honest and blames the result on himself alone, and asked the other locals to mention the accident, simply to save answering interminable questions for the next two weeks.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.—Mrs. McDonald who, with her husband, lives upon Sauvies' Island, near its head, came to the city yesterday and reported an incident that may lead to the discovery of another fatal hunting accident. A week ago yesterday a man came down the river in a boat painted drab, and just before nightfall landed upon the island near the McDonalds' house. He started a fire as if to cook his supper and then, shouldering his gun walked inland and has not been seen since. The boat had four oars and was stocked with provisions enough to last two or three days. These were left on the beach at the head of the island and Mr McDonald has taken charge of them, awaiting a claimant. What has become of the man who brought the boat there is a mystery, but it is thought quite probable that when search is made he will be found dead, the victim of another hunting accident.

THAT HOG CASE AGAIN.—A rehearing in the case of Bigham vs Ye Ark & Co, upon the motion to remand to the state court has been set down for to-morrow in the U S circuit court This is a case involving a claim for about $5000, the value of a lot of hogs which the plaintiff contracted to furnish to the defendant, a Chinese firm employing laborers on the Northern Pacific railroad Bigham claims that he fulfilled his contract, and furnished the hogs. The Chinese company claim that the swine was not delivered to them or to any of their authorized agents Bigham brought suit in the state court, and got judgment for one-half the value of the hogs. He was not satisfied with this, and asked for a new trial. Pending this the case was taken to the U S circuit court. Judge Deady remanded the case to the state circuit court, but the parties asked for a rehearing upon this and it has been granted

PLEADED GUILTY.—Ed Allerdyce, one of the young men captured by Special Officer Belcher just after breaking into Thomas Sheridan's clothing store on North First street a week ago Saturday night, came into court yesterday morning and pleaded guilty to the indictment against him of larceny in a store. Judge Stearns announced that he would pass sentence upon the prisoner to-day. The evidence against Allerdyce was so strong that his conviction was certain, and he has taken this means to get as light a sentence as possible His companion in the crime, William Law, is but a mere lad, and claimed that he was led into the theft by the older rogue It is probable that Law will plead not guilty, and may escape the penitentiary on account of his youth

MR THOMPSON'S LECTURE.—A very interesting lecture was delivered last evening in Y M. C A. hall by the Rev J. R. Thompson of Olympia, on "Ingersoll and the Bible" Mr Thompson is an able champion of Christianity and clearly showed the fallacy of the arguments of Mr Ingersoll His statements were analyzed and found to be illogical and untrue, and his influence instead of being on the side of truth and honesty, is exactly the reverse. Evidences of the truth of the bible and the powerful influences it has exerted in our world were then given by the lecturer, who closed with an eloquent appeal to all lovers of truth to maintain the living principles found in the sacred pages.

EXTRA SLEEPING CAR.—Under the new schedule which went into effect Sunday, special Pullman cars run every day between Portland and Dayton, W T During the winter, the local travel of the Walla Walla country was taken care of in the Northern Pacific sleeper, but passengers did not like the idea of being roused at a heathenish early hour at Wallula Junction, hence the extra sleeper was put on Three Pullman sleepers now arrive and depart daily over the O R & N one for the Northern Pacific, one for the Short Line and one for Dayton

LIKE OLD TIMES.—The scene at steamship dock between 4 to and 4 45 yesterday afternoon, from the time the Columbia arrived until she discharged her passengers, reminded one of two years ago, before we had communication by rail to the east. There were 300 passengers 160 in the cabin and 140 in the steerage Every hotel had its bus load of passengers, and two or three had to return for their "overflows" Nearly 200 of those who arrived were people seeking new homes. The steamer brought 1540 tons of freight.

DIVORCE CASES.—Suit was begun yesterday in the state circuit court by Dianna St. John to get a divorce from her husband Clark St. John and also by Kate Barofsky against her husband John Barofsky In the latter suit a restraining order was granted by Judge Stearns to keep the defendant from touching any of the joint property or coming upon the premises occupied by the plaintiff pending the settlement of the suit. A divorce has also been granted by Judge Stearns in the case of Mary E. Miller vs. Chas S Miller

PROBATE COURT.—In the matter of the estate of A R. McDonald, deceased, hearing of the final account of the administrator was yesterday set for Monday, May 4 The final accounts of the administrator of the estate of W D Taylor, deceased, were examined and approved, and a certain per cent of all claims against the estate were ordered paid The annual accounts of the administrator of the estate of Josiah Failing, deceased, were likewise examined and approved

PERHAPS NOT LOST.—It is possible that the British Bark Allahabad which sailed from Hong Kong Nov 1 for Portland is not lost, as generally supposed. A shipping note in a San Francisco paper states that she was spoken Dec 27 off Manilla. She was then farther from the Columbia river than when she started A northeast monsoon prevailed late in November and early in December, and no doubt she was driven southeast, where she may yet be, drifting in calms

LADIES' RELIEF SOCIETY.—This afternoon the Ladies' Relief Society will hold its annual meeting at the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church, and of course a full attendance is desired. Officers are to be elected for the coming year, and the reports will be interesting, as they cover the greatest step forward ever taken by the society, viz. the removal from the Old to the New Home

ATTACHED THE PROPERTY.—F Born yesterday placed an attachment upon the property of the Cascade Mill and Flume Company to secure $532 50, which he claims is due him. Born brought suit some time ago in the state circuit court to recover this sum, but did not at first deem it necessary to attach the defendant's property It is claimed that the company has failed to pay for some machinery furnished by Born This case has been set for trial April 22.

EXCURSION TO YAQUINA BAY.—The first excursion from Corvallis to Yaquina Bay over the Oregon Pacific railroad, started out on Saturday and returned last night without accident. The fare for the round trip was $5, and about sixty couple participated in what proved to be a most enjoyable trip. The road is now in good order, and Yaquina Bay is hereafter likely to be a summer resort, quite as much frequented as Clatsop and Ilwaco

ONE MORE DAY TO PAY TAXES.—As Sunday came in the five days allowed the chief of police in which to collect city taxes without cost, he concluded to give one more day of grace, so delinquents will have until this evening to settle without paying penalty About $5000 of the $19,000 delinquency has been paid since the books were turned over to the chief of police.

U P PRESBYTERY.—The presbytery of Oregon will meet at the United Presbyterian church, corner of Sixth and Montgomery streets, this evening at 7 30 o'clock Rev Joseph Alter will preach the opening sermon A presbyterial conference on Sunday school work will be held to-morrow evening An interesting programme will be carried out.

THEATER TRIP.—Vancouver cnitles will be able to attend the minstrels or the Casino on Friday evening, as the steamer Lurline will make a special trip from that place at 6 15 on the evening named Reserved seats can be secured through Sears & Sperry, Vancouver, or the purser of the boat.

FAST TIME.—Two carloads of wagons for a prominent firm in Portland were shipped from Fort Wayne, Indiana, March 27, and arrived here Sunday, April 5, making the remarkable time of nine days. They came over the Rock Island, Union Pacific and Short Line routes.

IN NEW HANDS.—Yesterday Wallace Struble and F L Baker bought of McGuire & Thorpe the East Portland Vindicator, and will take charge at once The new proprietors propose to put vigor into the paper, and they are the men able to do it.

WHY THEY COME

Reasons Given by the Immigrants for Deserting the East for this More favored Clime

I suppose you are furnished with all sorts of reasons why your visitors come west said an OREGONIAN representative to Secretary Carlisle of the state board of immigration

About as many reasons as there are persons to give them, asserted Mr Carlisle Chief among the reasons are the cold snaps of the recent winters A middle aged man from Vermont arrived on Friday and said When I left my home on the 23d of March my $800 farm was buried under three feet four inches of snow I've come to Oregon to thaw out If I can ever get the snow off that patch of mine I'm going to sell it for what it will bring under the hammer and invest here "

"A man from Texas says I've got tired of Texas one year a fair crop for three following no crop, or if a crop the bugs eat it up all rain or no rain and a steady supply of fever and ague Another from Manitoba says I could stand any ordinary degree of cold, but when it gets so frigid that the thermometer declines to tally the score, I can't stay A gentleman from Iowa who came through on Saturday, told me that he had to work all summer to earn money enough to buy coal during the winter This last summer was so brief and the winter so long and so severe that he did not have money enough to see him through. It was flee or freeze and I flew "

"A farmer from Minnesota told me that some of his cattle actually froze while standing on their feet He said one cow stood out in the road in front of my house at 5 o'clock in the afternoon humped up her back and actually froze standing' People from Arkansas have no cold snaps to chat about but the memory of the ague they have left behind makes them tremble, even at this distance "

I suppose some of your visitors are disappointed? asked the reporter

Yes the disappointment at not finding more of Uncle Sam's land available being most noticeable A man from Scranton Pa told me that the railway folders distributed in that place made the most positive statements as to the immense tracts of government land lying ready for the plow in all portions of Oregon The same thing was told me by a man recently arrived from an interior town in Illinois

Some of the people take the back track

"Yes those who have come here under the notion that this was a sort of Paradise a place where it was hardly necessary to labor It is well for the state that they go back

I suppose the immigrants are somewhat troubled with ill living representatives?

"A few have called my attention to certain phases of this sort of work The 'stool pigeon' who carries about with him a certain air of business has large 'acquaintance' in various portions of the state but a more intimate one with a shark here in the city, is the commonest specimen He hangs about the entrance to this building and intercepts an immigrant now and then with his siren song The song is about as far as he gets Generally the new comer hands me the fellow's card and asks about his reliability and I tell him That settles it

I experience some trouble with the fellow who undertakes to play the immigrant in order to get a half rate ticket He generally makes a blunder of some sort and then I trip him up When he comes to sign an affidavit that puts him in jeopardy he wilts "

This has been the busiest day of the immigration season. Up to 4 P M I had sixty four visitors all new comers ten heads of families all of them with some money More than one-half of these people took tickets to southern Oregon. The hotels are crowded with immigrants, and several hundred more are due within the next three days. The executive committee of the board expect to have new quarters in a few days Perhaps rooms near Ash street dock

The business community of Portland was startled yesterday morning by the news of the death of Henry D Green of this city at the Fifth Avenue hotel New York. ANNUAL STALLION SHOW.

The Fine Animals Exhibited at Hillsboro last Saturday.

HILLSBORO April 4

The annual stallion show was held at Hillsboro to day Owing to the fact that a misunderstanding as to date as well as a lack of proper advertising the turnout was not as complete as it should have been, taking into consideration that the day was exceptionally fine The parade was the finest and best organized in point of respectability of classes as well as quality of breeding and numbers, that Washington county has ever witnessed, and gentlemen here from different parts of the state, as well as from British Columbia unhesitatingly pronounce it a little the best affair of the kind they ever saw The arrangement of Messrs R Imbrie, Quimby Tongue Manning and Chalmers that a secretary be appointed to take down the name of every horse and his pedigree that should enter the parade was an excellent one, and if anyone is left out of the report it is through his own neglect and will teach them to attend strictly to business next time The request of Mr Quimby that every class should occupy a separate position in the procession was timely and good, giving the spectators a chance to compare Clydesdales with Clydesdales Percherons with Percherons and so on through all classes and grades adding wonderfully to the beauty of the turnout Following is a short summary of entries

All the horses were not out to the show but the presumption is that the owners were ashamed of them and after seeing the picked and best of this district the people were in no humor to look at the leaf bellied bow necked brutes that were left at home If any really worthy horse was left at home the more shame to the pig headed self-conceited owners that are not known outside their road district only through the unsurpassable qualities of their horses

PARAFFINE PAINT

Among the recent manufactories begun in this city is that of the Paraffine Paint Company composed chiefly of well known San Francisco business men among them being W L Garratt, Thomas Bell, Joseph Lowning, George H Mendell and J [illegible] Randol The company has purchased several acres of land on the bay near Shell mound and has just completed two buildings about 100 feet long for manufacturing purposes The article made is a cold liquid paint, entirely devoid of offensive smell after application It is the invention of two Californians who have been engaged during the last six years in perfecting it It is covered by United States patents and the company is acquiring patents from all foreign countries Applied to any metal it prevents it from oxidization A covering capacity nearly double that of any other paint is claimed for it and a gallon of it will spread over a smooth surface of 200 square feet sufficiently thick to preserve it from any decay Applied to iron it prevents rust and cannot be removed without taking scrapings of the iron with it It is impervious to salt or fresh water and resists the action of alkalies, ammonia and acids of all kinds It penetrates the pores of any substance to which it is applied and can be used with the same facility and success upon rattan wood, cloth, leather and paper Boots and shoes can be made waterproof with a coating of this paint without damaging their appearance or destroying the effect of an ordinary polish of blacking Paper coated with it becomes waterproof and acquires the durability and some of the elasticity of rubber Applied to roofs shingles tin or iron it is equally efficacious Cotton belting can be made to outlast leather, and be manufactured much more economically The article has been in the market but a short time but has met with a gratifying success The Central Pacific Railroad Company has used the paint in covering the big depot at the Oakland mole The roof is made of corrugated iron The company intends to use it also in covering the switches and bridges along the road It is very likely that it will soon be applied in the manufacture of waterproof house linings bags, boxes etc which will require the employment of many hands —San Francisco Journal [illegible]

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

The committee appointed to consider the subject of Juvenile Delinquency and to propose measures of relief, report that they have carefully surveyed the plans and results which have been developed in various places and have embodied their conclusions in the communication submitted below prepared by Rev T L Eliot, secretary of the committee

In carrying out the recommendations contained in said report the following measures for furthering this work of benevolence are proposed viz

1 The appointment of a committee composed of our most influential citizens who will undertake the work with zeal and efficiency

2 That said committee appeal to our fellow-citizens for their personal support which will include a subscription to meet necessary expenses to carry out the object of the law

3 The organization of a children's aid society to be effected by the subscribers who shall be called together by the committee for this purpose

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT

To the Ministerial Association of Portland—Gentlemen The undersigned were by you appointed a committee to consider anew the subject of juvenile delinquency and answer if possible the question what can be done by us as citizens under the new law concerning criminal minors, known as house bill 165 of the last legislature We have as fully deliberated, going over the ground of past efforts and experiments for the reformation of wayward children and examining the evidence of public and private work in other states. The committee were unanimous in their conclusion that so-called reform schools under state jurisdiction are not usually satisfactory They are peculiarly exposed to mismanagement they are costly the results are inadequate and we have good reason to think the underlying principle is wrong by which the attempt is made to apply the mixed discipline of a prison and a home to a congregated mass of juvenile lives While therefore the present law could be used as the basis of a school of this kind, founded by a voluntary association, we do not advise such action, at least with our present information and at the present stage of our development in population and intelligence as a community concerning reform work

We have had our attention called to societies elsewhere formed for the purpose of receiving wayward or neglected children and criminal minors and for finding them homes and employment An institution of this kind acting under a law similar to our own (H B 165) appears to be making a useful record in California. It is a voluntary organization with a small receiving house and salaried agent Its method is to receive boys or girls under suspended sentence of court, and when a sufficient knowledge of their character is obtained, they are placed out in some home in the country The marked feature of this work is the close supervision, and persistence of kindly guardianship with which the boy or girl is followed up until a real adjustment is made to society, under normal conditions. We have examined the reports, books, etc , of this society (known as the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society) and have statistics of its work, which would appear to show surprisingly good results with the class of children who come into their hands The temporary care and subsequent routine of guardianship seems also to be done at very small expense contrasted with the plan of permanent detention, and the congregate system To what extent the conditions of society in our state and towns can be adapted to the plan of placing out children as above described, would be in part a matter of experiment but it seems to us the most hopeful outlook in what must in the nature of the case be a difficult problem for the characters of children at even 14 years of age seem to be fearfully marked and the change, through altered surroundings and influence can be wrought only through great patience and sympathy, and requires the watchfulness of years before complete assurance is obtained

It seems to your committee that the time is ripe for some steps to be taken by our citizens in this comparatively hopeful direction of effort. The main condition, however should be the securing of the services of a proper superintendent and were the society to be organized this should imperatively be its first object of solicitous search Any active undertaking of the work, or raising of funds even should be conditioned upon having such a man—qualified in head and heart—and ready to lead as the agent of the society If this were arranged the other steps of procuring funds renting and furnishing some headquarters and obtaining the operation of the statute in behalf of the society through the courts would be comparatively simple though sufficiently arduous The community must be prepared to make some sacrifice if it is earnest to do effective work for the class named

We cannot conclude our report without adverting to the heavy responsibility lying at the door of society at large and of individuals, for the conditions under which juvenile criminals and wayward or neglected children are increasing in numbers amongst us Efforts, however wise to cure or restore these children when they have gone so far as to come in conflict with the laws is a melancholy task The supply must be cut off, and we cannot scrutinize too fearlessly the social abuses and civic outrages the imperative statutes—and citizen-carelessness which outwardly foster bad children nor the ill constructed households and criminal neglects of the homes from out of which these unfortunates grow The responsibility should be pushed home and the remedies sought not merely at the comparatively desperate end after the wrong character is stamped in the child's heart but at the obscure beginnings. The forces of regeneration and culture through religion education and pure government must forever be our chief reliance against the evils which oppress us and which of right vex our peace of mind until the rooted sources are sought out and the stronger growth of right principle put in their place

THE EAST SIDE

ENGINE HOUSE FOR RELIEF CO NO 3

Yesterday afternoon the committee on fire and water opened bids at the council chamber for building a two-story engine house for Relief Fire Company to be located on the west side of Fourth street, one lot north of Holladay avenue Macdonald & Sewell were the lowest bidders at $975 (a deduction of $60 to be made for the barn now resting on the site) and were awarded the contract. NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 6.—Governments [illegible] lower at 112. There was also an equal reduction in coupon 4s at 131¼. Others unchanged.

Stocks were extremely dull, without the development of any special feature. Total sales were only 111,869 shares, which, with the exception of Saturday, is the dullest day of this year, and with few exceptions the dullest in several years. Of to-day's business four stocks monopolized over 63 per cent of sales. The street was comparatively free of rumors and leading operators on both sides of the market showed no disposition to trade. Business was therefore confined almost exclusively to room traders.

During the day there were current reports that Northern Pacific wouldn't be able to earn during the fiscal year ending June 30 enough to meet fixed charges, and the stock became one of the weak ones on the list. At the office of the company it was positively stated that there was no truth whatever in the report. Oregon Railway and Navigation was also extremely weak, following rumors that the dividend would either be reduced or passed altogether, and with sales of 1800 shares the stock fell from 67⅜ to 63¾. It is understood that a meeting of directors of the company will be held here to-morrow. It is believed they will act on the question of a dividend as well as consider the lease of Oregon Railway and Navigation line to the Northern Pacific.

The mining market was quiet during the forenoon and prices were higher. Standard sold at $1 00@1 15, Consolidated California and Virginia 60 and Mexican 60. In the afternoon Standard sold at $1 15.
